Thanks to the secret submitter who said
“Now this explains a lot of questions I’ve had recently.”

On the first day, God created the dog and said, “Sit all day by the door of your house, and bark at anyone who comes in or walks past. For this I will give you a life span of twenty years.”

The dog said, “That’s a long time to be barking. How about only ten years, and I’ll give you back the other ten?”

And God said that it was good.

On the second day, God created the monkey and said, “Entertain people, do tricks, and make them laugh. For this, I’ll give you a twenty-year life span.”

The monkey said, “Monkey tricks for twenty years? That’s a pretty long time to perform. How about I give you back ten like the dog did?”

And God again said that it was good.

On the third day, God created the cow and said, “You must go into the field with the farmer all day long, and suffer under the sun, have calves, and give milk to support the farmer’s family. For this, I will give you a life span of sixty years.”

The cow said, “That’s kind of a tough life you want me to live for sixty years. How about twenty, and I’ll give you back the other forty?”

And God agreed it was good.

On the fourth day, God created man and said, “Eat, sleep, play, marry and enjoy your life. For this, I’ll give you twenty years.”

But the man said, “Only twenty years? Could you possible give me my twenty, the forty the cow gave back, the ten the monkey gave back, and the ten the dog gave back; that makes eighty, okay?”

“Okay”, said God, “You asked for it.”

So that is why for our first twenty years, he eats, sleeps, plays and enjoys himself. For the next forty years, he slaves in the sun to support his family. For the next ten years, he does monkey tricks to entertain the grandchildren. And for the last ten years, he sits on the front porch and barks at everyone.

A man’s life has now been explained to you.
